Staying Healthy While Traveling Overseas
Health Checklist

Health Care System Knowledge Assessment

I have medical insurance that will cover me in the region that I will be traveling.
I know the prevalent health concerns or problems in the region that I will be traveling (malaria, cholera...etc.)
I am aware of immunizations I might need to cross the borders of my primary country into other countries I might wish to visit.
I am aware of the policies on AIDS testing in the region where I will be traveling.
I understand how the medical care system works in the region I will be traveling.
If I am to get sick, I know how to pay for medical care in the region I will be traveling. (Whether currency or credit is accepted, and when I will need to pay for care.)
I am taking sufficient money or credit for unexpected medical care bills.

Personal Health Issues

I am bringing medications I may need on my trip so I won't have to purchase them in the region to which I am traveling.
I have had a dental check-up.
I have had a physical within the last year.
I have had all of the immunizations I need for traveling and have access to these records.

Personal Health Promotion Issues

If I choose to be sexually active during my overseas stay, I am aware of the possible risks involved (i.e., pregnancy, AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, etc.) and am prepared to take appropriate precautions.
I know the region's customs and beliefs concerning alcohol and other drug usage and restrictions.
I know what the quality of water is in the region where I am traveling.
I understand the risk for illness associated with the water available in the region I am traveling and understand water purification techniques to assist my avoidance of contaminated water.
I know what kinds of foods are typical in the region I am traveling.
I understand that it is very important to maintain a healthy diet (3 balanced meals) while I am traveling.
I am aware of the types of foods that may make me ill and how I can protect myself from becoming ill.
I know the time difference between home and the region to which I am traveling and have begun to prepare myself for jet lag.

Emotional/Psychological Issues

I have done research on the country that I am traveling to and understand its culture and customs.
I have prepared myself mentally for traveling abroad and understand that each region is very different from the United States.

This information available in alternate media upon request.

This publication was adapted from materials developed by Olen Health Center, Michigan State University. It was produced by the Cross Cultural Health Program sponsored by University Health Services, the Center for Counseling and Psychological Services, and Office of International Programs with EOPC funding.

Penn State is an affirmative action, equal opportunity university.