Penn State's Ag Prog

LARGEST OUTDOOR AGRICULTURA

Ag Progress Days features the latest technology and research exhibits, educational programs, and guided tours. One of only three agricultural exhibitions in the country sponsored by a major university, Ag Progress Days is in its 37th year at our Rock Springs site. Our exhibits showcase the latest in Penn State research, as well as information on best management practices and changing regulations in the agricultural industry.

With more than 400 regional, national, and international exhibitors, we have something for everyone. Each year farming families from across Pennsylvania and surrounding states attend this three-day event. Of the 45,000 expected attendees, over 60 percent are actively engaged in agriculture or related industries.

Join us in showcasing the latest innovations in the agricultural industry and spend your day with Penn State extension educators.
